

I 've never been to London City but visit it daily

see still people in moving stances go sightseeing

photos appear right in front

Traffic lights are always green or always red

Vehicles have certain direction without moving night never comes flying through a still life forwards and backwards, left and right the works in progress are always in progress when tired of a place or bored move upwards – minimize –

And again to another place downwards

cannot use the underground
